

ROADSTAR CARAVANS

For over 21 years, Roadstar Caravans have been one of the premium caravan manufacturers in Australia. In the beginning, Australian Hitec Engineering Pty Ltd manufactured Roadstar's caravan chassis. Roadstar caravans are now completely built from the ground up at Roadstar's manufacturing plant in Coolaroo, Victoria. Owner and Managing Director, Ken Nizam, says, "The result has been a remarkable improvement in style, design, luxury and durability".

The passion for the industry was always there for Ken, and he is proud that he was a part of the original Roadstar premium caravans ever manufactured. When Ken wanted to take Roadstar to the next level, he decided to purchase all the machinery tooling, programs and employ key staff. With Ken at the helm, Roadstar Caravans are getting bigger and better every day.

The continual strive for improvement is what encourages them to stay in the business. "Our vision is to build caravans with uncompromising quality by developing newer and more modern models with an emphasis on quality," Ken says. "To build a true home away from home with all the comforts you would expect from a Roadstar."

Roadstar aim to produce something for everyone. "Our product range is expanding and we are always working on new designs. We are able to service and custom build vans to customers' specifications and requirements," he says. At Roadstar, quality is a big focus. In fact, it is a mandatory aspect that has not been compromised in the company's growth.

Ken reckons that their most popular van is the Limited Edition. "Our Limited Edition van is a very popular choice of caravan. It gives great value for money and is an extremely well constructed and finished van. Plus, it meets most 2500kg to 3000kg towing vehicle requirements.

"Of course, our Daintree model with its many layouts and features to choose from is also another very popular selection by many." They are currently working on a lighter range of vans including a 2000kg single-axle Expander van that Ken believes should also prove very popular with their customers.

One of the reasons Roadstar stand out is their dedication to producing a quality product. "Our staff are all trained and qualified, and many have over 35 years experience in the industry," he says. Roadstar are 100% Australian owned and made. They are loyal to their dealers and support them in any way they can.

At Roadstar, it's a priority to create a product that meets Australians' needs.
